Political Club Seeks Support For Community Newspaper

Bob White, president of the Citizens Political Interest Club calls on all citizens to boycott the candidancy of all candidates that seeks the support of the black community that does not advertise in the black community paper

Candidates who seek your votes by advertising through all of the white papers. Every small paper in the State of Washington was jammed full of political advertising, but not the black paper.

We can no longer support the one time politician who comes through the community and says what he is going to do if he is elected, for as we all know a politician seems to have a short memory once he has taken office; so we want him to do something before he is elected, so if he is elected and forgets his promise as usual, that for the community it won't be a total loss.

Over a quarter of a million dollars was spent in campaigning in the primary, in newspapers, on radio and on TV locally. Only one candidate that was a candidate for public office advertised in our community paper.

Anyone who wants our vote should not be allowed to solicit our votes in the all white papers where they spend 99.9% of there money.

I call upon all the citizens of the black community and all the other minority communities to join me in this effort to stop taking money out of our communities and putting it in the establishments that does not support the cause of the minority.

They are asking you for your vote and you can ask them for their dollars. No bucks, no votes. I ask you to watch the community paper. and make your choice both Democrate and Republican. If they don't support the community they don't deserve your vote. This is a must.

So let's all join together, let our grievances be heard at the polls.

Support the paper and the radio stations that support our community.

Robert R. White, President, Citizens Policical, Interest Club.

If the choice is between the lesser of two evils, and you don't choose, what does that make you?

VOTE, or shut up.

CAPITALISTS ALL

Figures on the state of American affluence never cease to be amazing. According to a late count released by the U.S. Census Bureau, four of every five households own cars and 30 percent own two or more. Nearly two in every three households own the homes they live in--and a growing number have second homes in the country. Ninety-five percent of U.S. families own at least one television set. Nearly half have color televisions. By 1971, about 45 percent of U.S. households had air conditioning. Nearly 100 percent of American homes now have refrigerators--91.1 percent to be exact.

In view of this striking evidence that nearly everyone in the country, measured by ownership of homes and other property, is most emphatically a capitalist and an integral part of an affluent establishment, it becomes somewhat difficult to explain the existence of so many antiestablishment enthusiasts. Judging by the statistics, a lot of them must be indulging themselves in the capitalistic prerogative of owning homes, automobiles, refrigerators and so on. In other words their antiestablishment convictions do not seem to be insurmountable. So maybe there is hope for the country.

Right On!

Tacoma Model Cities Clean-Up Program

The Tacoma Model Cities Program is contracting with the Tacoma-Pierce County Health Department to conduct an intensive community wide program to eliminate rodents and insects in the Model Neighborhood Area by removing unsightly and unhealthful trash, garbage and general debris. Many of you have already come in contact with Berkely Keith or Hulen Allen, Vector Control Specialists hired by the Health Department to work in the Tacoma Model Cities Program Enviromental Health Project during the First Action Year.

During the Second Year, we will be able to provide an additional service of free trash pick-up. We will only be able to do this under the following conditions:

1. You must be a resident of the MNA. Boundaries are South 6th to South 27th, Sprague to Fawcett.
2. You must box the trash and deposit it in the container in your alley.
3. You must call the Health Department at 593-4767, and give them your name, address and where you have placed the trash.

The free pick-up will not be available until after the Second Action Year officially starts. However, it is very important that we compile a listing of people desiring service so that we can start the service immediately upon the start of the Second Action Year.

If you have any questions about this pick-up or about the Enviromental Health Project, call the Health Department at 593-4767.

Mail Order

If you've noticed your mailbox is more stuffed than usual lately, it's because the Christmas catalogs and flyers are poruing in already. The illustrations are attractive, the prices aren't too bad and the convenience of ordering from your easy chair clinches the deal.

Many customers are disappointed each year when they order by mail. The Federal Trade Commission has received many complaints; the companies involved were both large and small, well-known and fly-by-nights.

People have paid for items that were never delivered; others have paid for and waited monthas for deli very. Some were unable to get a refund when merchandise was defective or damaged.

Be sure you know who you're dealing with before you place an order. Often it's best to choose a company that has a local office or store or one you can reach by telephone. Also, order c.o.d.

If you can't find out a company, think twice before ordering--you may never see the merchandise or your money again.

An honest today--

Dan Evans

Dan Evans speaks his mind, tells the truth, doesn't try to sugarcoat the problems. Under his leadership, we've successfully weathered one of the toughest periods in our state's history.
Now, let's move forward to one of our best periods. The economy has turned the corner. Employment is up. Welfare rolls are declining. The outlook is great for the future and Dan Evans is the man who can put it all together.

Tax Relief—Dan Evans has pledged no tax increases for the next budget. This will give us time to accomplish real property tax relief. Dan Evans believes the constitution must be changed. This would allow the tax load to be shared fairly and set tax rates with clear limits which can only be changed by a vote of the people.

Integrity in Government—This is no time to slip back into the old-time politics of cronyism, favoritism and deception. We can trust Dan Evans to keep state government on the straight and narrow path.

Building for Tomorrow—Dan Evans believes that education, jobs and the environment are the keys to our future. What we do in these vital areas during the next four years will affect our lives and the lives of our children for years to come.

Concern for People—A great state can never turn its back on people who really need help. Under the Evans administration, new programs for the aged, the retarded and mentally ill have won national recognition both for their effectiveness and their economy. We must continue this work.

Don't fall for the empty promises of an old-time politician. Don't turn back the clock to the old-time politics of patronage and special favors. Don't let all the good work go down the drain. Do keep our state moving ahead to the good times we've worked so hard to achieve. Do re-elect the man who can put it all together. Do re-elect Governor Dan Evans.

VOTE FOR 258

the FACTS about Greyhound Racing are:

You're going to hear a lot from now to November 7th in opposition to Initiative 258. At least, you'll hear a lot of inuendoes and half-truths. We think you want the facts, so here they are:

FACT 1:

REVENUE: Greyhound racing, the "Sport of the People," will provide an estimated $6 million in taxable annual revenue and other income to our larger populated areas. Initiative 258 requires payment of 5% of the gross receipts of all pari-mutuel betting to the licensing cities as a privilege tax. Nationally, greyhound racing is bringing in $52 million in tax revenue annually. In addition, it will create a new pollution-free industry, which will have to pay the same taxes assessed against any business or industry.

FACT 2:

CRUELTY: The opposition says greyhound racing is a cruel sport. Don't you believe it! Greyhounds have been racing for Centuries. They love to run, and since they are extremely valuable animals, they are given better care than many of us give ourselves! These dogs are raised by animal lovers and kennel owners throughout the country, people who care about dogs and humane treatment. And, after their racing career, they're often more valuable than before, for breeding. And when they race, there is no one sitting on their back with a whip!

FACT 3:

TOURISM: We'll all benefit! Reports from other greyhound racing states, such as Oregon, Colorado and South Dakota, indicate a tremendous upswing of tourism due to racing. According to a report from the Colorado Racing Commission to Governor Love, "Our stores and shops have enjoyed a good boost from the operation...The business upswing has reflected in clothing, hardware, grocery and drug store sales as well as providing an upswing in hotel, motel, and restaurant businesses."

the FACT is:

initiative 258 is good for all of us!

Halloween Advisory

Motorists were warned to exercise extreme caution on Halloween night as thousands of youngsters will be crowding onto the sidewalks and streets of Tacoma in search of the "treats" typical of the season.

Chief of Police Lyle E. Smith, said motorists should be prepared to stop wherever merry-makers appear. Residential areas, where cars are parked on the streets, are especially hazarduous. Youngsters often dart from between parked cars into the path of an approaching vehicle. The slight inconvience of slowing down or stopping for the children is a small price to pay for the safety of the child.

Smith requested parents of young "Trick or Treaters" assume a major responsibility and accompany their children as they go from house-to-house in the neighborhood.

The Chief suggested the following rules of safety be closely observed: #1 Be sure costumes are light in color, short length enough to prevent tripping, and nonflammable. For greater visibility, costumes should be decorated with reflective tape so they will "glow" before a car's headlights.

#2 Halloween masks should not be worn these may easily restrict vision. Colorful, washable makeup should be used in place of masks. #3 Children should carry flashlights when they are out after dark and should be closely supervised when crossing streets. #4 Children should call only at homes which are lighted by porch or yard lights. #5 While going from house-to-house, children should use sidewalks and not cut across yards and vacant lots between houses. #6 Children should bring ALL treats home for safety inspections by their parents BEFORE being allowed to eat anything.

The Chief urged people who wish to welcome "Trick" or "TREATERS" to turn on porch or yard lights as a sign of their hospitality. He said this would help prevent unpleasant encounters with individuals who do not wish to participate in the festivities.

The Chief also said vandalism or destruction of property is never necessary. His officers will be especially alert for this type of wanton disregard for other's property on Halloween night. The Department wants everyone to enjoy the evening, but not at the expense of someone else.

Narcotic Intake Continues Drug Education

Hi! If you read my article in the FACTS two weeks ago, you'll remember I talked about Barbiturates. This Week I'll give you some facts about the dangerous drugs stimulants.

Most of these are variations of the drug Amphetamine Sulfate and comes in a variety of brand name preparations. They are legally manufactured by major drug companies and used medically for treating obesity, mental depression, alcoholism and other conditions.

In illegal non-medical use, they produce a high euphoria feeling. Athletes use them to raise energy levels. They are used by truck drivers who are behind the wheel for long hours. This has often led to traffic results.

The most common of the stimulants is Amphetamine Sulfate, in the trade name preparation known as Benzedrine. This may be found as white, double scored tables or as pink, single scored, heart shaped tablets. The round white tablets have not been manufactured for several years and any that are now available have probably been manufactured illegally. Benzedrine is packaged in foil wrappers of 6 to 10 each, which normally sells for a dollar on the illegal market, (they may cost more in Tacoma). Common nicknames for these stimulants are big whites, hearts, sweethearts, bennies, cartwheels, etc...

Methamphetamine Hydrochloride one of the most powerful stimulants. Methamphetamine Hydrochloride is marked under the trade name Metedrine. The slang name is speed. This drug is available as either tablets, capsules or powder.

Unlike the other stimulants which are almost always ingested orally. Methedrine is usually injected, the powder being mixed with water. The result is a sudden "flash" a tingling, sparkling sensation which overcomes the entire body. The pulse rate may jump from 70 to over 200.

EFFECTS OF STIMULANTS ABUSE: The initial effects produced by any of the stimulants include nervousness, insomnia, loss of appetite and dilation of the eyes. More advanced effects experienced by the drug abusers include tremors and visual distortions. The eyes oscillate and physical impairment follows. This may be followed by a loss of judgement, false bravado and even aggressiveness. A West Virginia hitch hiker beat a driver to death while high on amphetamines.

A tolerance to the effects of the drug is built up so that larger and larger doses are required. Cases have been reported of users consuming 25 to 50 pills at a time and up to 1,000 a week.

The amphetamines are not physically addicting, however, a psychological dependency is developed and the user loses all interest in life except to stay high.

The physical results of amphetamines use are particularly dangerous. While the drug stimulants the body for a period of time, it cannot overcome the effects of fatigue indefinitely. Eventually the body succumbs to the long hours without sleep and illusions, physical and mental depression and sudden unconsciousness occurs.

There is a dangerously high percentage of our youth who abuse amphetamines. Narcotic Intake hopes we can cut the percentage down by educating.

Narcotic Intake has a very provocative drug seminar featuring Epitath which we will be giving to local Jr. High and Senior High schools, and are ready to give to anyone requesting our services.

You know, it's nation building time and we as Blacks, minorities can't build anything on drugs. One of the main things that is important in nation building is the survival of our youth. Drugs are tearing our youths down. Take a look around and see how many of your sons or daughters are doing well in school. And if they aren't, why not? May be drugs. If it is, contact me, Alonzo D. Foote Jr., at FU3-2211 or Drop in at our drop-in center, at 1704 South Kay Street, in the Urban League Building.

Ski School

A six-week ski school for all ages will be sponsored by Pepsi-Cola and held at Ski Acres this winter, according to H.M. Jones, manager Glaser Beverage/Tacoma.

Jones said the Pepsi Ski School will offer two six-week courses, the first beginning January 9 and the second February 20.

"Pepsi Ski School will provide the best instructors available working to make learning to ski an easy, fun experience," Jones said.

Instructors of the Pepsi Ski School, under the direction of Jim Webb of Webb Ski Enterprises, Inc., are all members of the Professional Ski Instructors of America and/or the Pacific Northwest Ski Instructors Association.

"We will be stressing quality instruction and family fun at the lowest cost of any ski school in the State," Jones said.

Cost of the six-week learn-to-ski session, he pointed out, is $15.50 or $35.00 with transportation in both Seattle and Tacoma.

Persons interested in obtaining an enrollment application or more information should call 783-5542 or write Pepsi Ski School, 804 N.W. 54th, Seattle, Washington, 98107. Additional information is also available in cartons of Pepsi-Cola at many local grocery stores, Jones added.

Newest and Most Remote Housing Development

The Northwest's newest--and perhaps most remote--"housing development" is coming along at a fast clip.

Men from Company B, 864th Engineer Battalion, are building a helipad, putting in Jamesway tent foundations and framing, and resurfacing the access road to the 9th Infantry Division Winter Training Area in the Snoqualmie National Forest.

The area is north of Mount Rainier National Park, about 25 miles southeast of Enumclaw.

First Lieutenant George Cajigal is directing a construction team of about 50 men at the project site. Bulldozers, graders and front loaders have cleared and leveled the building locations. Carpenters, plumbers and electricians do their thing next.

Two-man teams from the Battalion communications section operate a 24-hour retransmission station atop, 5,500 foot-high Suntop Mountain.

Facilities at the camp will include 12 Jamesway tents for sleeping quarters, kitchen and dining hall. Other improvements include the helipad and a motor pool.

The dirt access road from Highway 410 will be regraded and surfaced with crushed rock.

Expected to be ready for use by November 15, the camp is designed for a company of soldiers at a time. Its relatively flat area is ideal for beginners' skiing, snowshoeing, and other arctic training. Arrangements have been made for the troops to ski on the slopes at the nearby Crystal Mountain resort two days a week.

Letters To Your Editor

from Joe D. Staring

There is a rising current that is beginning to surface that the resistance of many involved will not be able to surpress.

The voltage that continues to force the current to surface is the lack of coordination and the obvious duplication of community service programs. Let's see if we can figure out what has happened to cause this current.

A few years ago, the push was on for citizens to write new programs to be submitted, then studied and resubmitted to the city council, hopefully for approval.

This soon became known as one of the real ways to really get a piece of the action, write a program. We all, generally speaking, believe there is a reason for everything.

I believe our community has been meeting and meeting, realizing few and fewer results while the novelty of meeting has been waning and waning.

So what has happened is the community has met with "meeting death." This I also believe can be directly attributed to the excessive amount of duplication that exists in our community programs.

No persons, no matter what their economic and social status can be expected to put attending what many consider to be an unproductive meeting over their personal priorities. Every citizen should preform his civic duties, but by the same token the citizen should still have time to care for home and children.

Community programs should not demand more than that of it's citizens, (unless, of course there is a crisis situation at hand.) In that case I believe the citizens of this community respond in a positive manner. So, clearly there is a need for cutbacks in activities deriving from excessive programs, through consolidation of programs concentrating on quality opposed to quanity, getting the services down to the people as opposed to creating a lot of fat and waste from the administrative level. So let's cut out the fat and waste, coordinate and consolidate the existing programs creating comprehensive community program planning.

While A CCPP will be a threat to a few programs directors and a treat to many. The program directors will try to justify their existence. But the question is of course, is, who will it be, a few directors and their programs or a lot of citizens and their community.

I think the later will provale over the former. A CCPP will be a help to the community right away, it will be a tranquilizer that will ease the "meeting death" I spoke of earlier. CCPP will provide us with the means of getting the service down to the people where they are most needed instead of tying up money and manpower at the administrative level, which create fat and waste. A well placed CCPP will give us a centralized base of operation for each major service area, education, employment, health etc. That alone, hopefully will make accessability and obtainability of provided services less complex to the everyday citizen.

It will also help to check those persons who would freely take advantage of available service that to often prevent someone who really needs them from getting such services. Organized properly a CCPP will enable us to deal more affectively with revenue sharing. I am not saying by any stretch of the imagination that the citizens of the community are asking for CCPP.

What I am saying is that in the near future the people will demand that someone prove they don't need one.

Four little girls killed in a Birmingham church in 1963 would have voted this year for the first time. They won't. WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE?

Q. What are some things I should know about my company pension plan?

A. You probably have been given a description of your plan or one is available to you. Check these points:

When you can be covered—In many plans you may have to satisfy an age or service requirement, or both, before you can become a member.

How much your benefits will be—Most pension plans use length of service in determining benefits. In many plans, the amount of pension also depends upon earnings. Find out if earnings affect your benefit, then try to estimate what your pension will be at retirement.

About vesting of benefits—Vested benefits are benefits you are entitled to even if you leave the job. When you retire, they become payable in addition to benefits from social security and any other employer.

Lou Rawls 'No Such Thing As Black Movies

When Mike Douglas asked if there is a new commercial Black cinema that is emerging with mass appeal cohost Lou Rawls comments: "I have found that this is a very distasteful thing for me. They've started to say that they're going to make 'Black' movies. That's fine 'cause they've always made 'White movies, but the whole thing is a fallacy. It is impossible to make a movie that is really authentic and have it all Black, all White, all Indian or whatever. It's impossible for me to say that I live in a completely black world, just as it is for you to say you live in a completely white world."

Expo '72: It's a Great Year

Los Angeles, October 6 -- Motown's total, top-to-bottom involvement with Rev. Jesse L. Jackson's PUSH Expo '72 in Chicago was perhaps the single most significant factor in propelling the annual black and minority business and cultrual trade exposition to its most spectacular success in history.

Leading the Motown corporate thrust at Expo '72 was Motown President Berry Gordy, whose keynote address before an opening-day national businessmen's breakfast so stirred the 700 persons assembled that they rose as one to accord him a standing ovation.

In another phase of Expo, Paul Walker, principal press spokesman for Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), candidly told the news media that "by far the biggest single smash hit performance at the Exposition this year was the Jackson 5 revue." Enthused Walker: "The crowd was just packed to the rafters."

Indeed, seven of Motown's superstar acts donated their time and talent to Expo's nightly entertainment segments. The two times that the International Amphitheatre's 12,000 seat entertainment hall was totally sold out and jammed past capacity at Expo occurred on Motown Night, with The Supremes and The Temptations performing together and Smokey Robinson serving as the emecee, and at The Jackson 5 concert.

Other Motown acts headlining Expo shows were the sensational Gladys Knight and The Pips, who are about to embark on a European tour; Eddie Kendricks, whose hit record, "If You Let Me," is sweeping the country; and Marvin Gaye, a suprise performer whose mere entrance on stage set off a roar in the audience that nearly cracked the sound barrier.

Additionally, Motown invested heavily in the construction of a mind-blowing, psychedelic discoteque on the mezzanine of the International Amphitheatre's exposition hall that was the most talked-about exhibit at Expo. Richare Thomas, PUSH's national director of special events and the coordinator of Expo '72, enthusiastically collared almost every visitor he met and announced that the discoteque, dubbed the Motown Pavillion, was "the most creative and the most exciting innovation ever to be introduced at an Expo in the history of such events."

Referring specifically to PUSH's recent economic agreements with Schlitz and General Foods, Mr. Gordy observed: "These agreements are not welfare; they are good business. Rev. Jackson is simply selling common sense."

'SMOKIN'

When The Supremes and The Temptations hit the boards together at PUSH Expo '72, the audience went into a delirious frenzy at the sight of these two super groups from Motown Record Corporation. The Expo crowd sampled the thrills that audiences from coast to coast enjoyed during a summer tour by the two super-groups. Here, they wrap us their show with a finale that included Smokey Robinson, who served as amecee for the exciting, fast-paced experience in sight and sound.

African Dancers To Appear In Seattle

The fervent passions of an amazing people come alive in the Seattle Center Opera House, Friday, November 10 at 8:30 p.m. when Northwest Releasing presents the DANCERS OF MALI.

All tribemen of Northwestern Africa's nation of Mali. these dancers present their fold heritage...the heritage of all who spring from African culture.

Their presentation, which won Grand Prize at the International Dance Festival in Paris, has thrilled audiences in Moscow, London, Leningrad, Athens and around the world. Forty-five dancers, singers, drummers, acrobats and warriors perform their centuries-old celebrations of birth, death, war, witchcraft and sacrifice to their gods. Only in the last decade have these tribal dances, s still performed in the jungles, been witnessed by outsiders. Fear of angry gods caused these tribesmen to kill anyone who stumbled onto a celebration. Many of these dances and accompanying songs tell of tribal legends, such as the "Dance of the Possessed" in which spirits control the dancer's body. One of the high points of the performance is the demonstration of athletic agility and physical strength put forth by the dancers. When this exquisite muscular control is performed in the "Mandiani," or "mating dance," it is a breathless and beautiful saga of love.

SOLIDARITY

Gladys Knight and The Pips, the family act that has proven that unity in show business results in prosperity, wowed the audience at PUSH Expo '72 in Chicago with a run-down of the record hits accumulated by the group during its professional life. Moved to ecstacy by Glady's prayerful rendition of "I Don't Want To Do Wrong," a young fan shouted" "I always wondered why I do wrong things. Gladys just explained it to me. Now I know: I just can't help myself."
